

PERIODICALLY we have to explain how come we use "we" in this column when only one person is involved in the writing of it.

For example, the gal who sets this on the IBM, Carol Naumann, asked us recently who was the other part of "the we". She had been setting the copy for quite a spell and she was probably tired of waiting for the other guy to show up.

So we went into the explanation of the so-called "editorial we", something that has been handed down through generations of newspaper people.

Using "we" sort of symbolizes the point that publishing a newspaper is a collective enterprise. Editorial writers like to assume that a united front is being presented. This, the case.

Using "we" also, in a way, sounds less conceited than "I".

There are other basic reasons. Even the Webster dictionary concedes that "we is sometimes used by a person referring to several persons including himself or by a king, author, editor, judge, etc. referring to himself".

Frankly we believe that we do it because of three basic reasons: (1) we always like support, real or imaginary, for our stand on any issue; (2) "we" does sound less conceited, in our book, than "I"; and (3) we have always used "we".

So we will stay with "we". (That's bad grammar, but "us" wouldn't sound right.)

RECENTLY Mayor Inglis, of that ivory tower known as Monte Sereno, received considerable publicity by making public a letter he sent to Dr. Wallace Hall of West Valley College explaining why he was returning his complimentary tickets to the symphony concert.

In his letter, Mayor Inglis, the former Navy admiral, indicated that a junior college was getting out of its proper channel, culture-wise, in sponsoring an activity such as a symphony concert.

We got the impression that the old Navy salt sort of felt that the junior collegewas supposed to be row boat and should stay in shallow water and leave the deep water navigating, culturally speaking, to higher educational institutions. He didn't mention it but we assume that the Naval Academy at Annapolis would probably be qualified in that respect.

We don't intend to get involved in a high-level discussion on the subject of what is and what is not culture or how little or how much a junior college should touch on this aspect of education.

But, it is our opinion, that junior colleges

Drive-in theater to seek zone change for new site

Owners of the Winchester Drive-In Theater at Sunnyoaks near Highway 17 are seeking a new location in Campbell for the showing of their movies. They have selected a site but they need a zone change.

The theater needs a new location because the San Tomas Expressway will cut through the present location in such a manner to render the property useless for the showing of pictures.

Next Tuesday, February 16, the Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing at the city hall on the request for zone change submitted by Syufy Enterprises of San Francisco, owners of the Winchester Drive-In. The 15-acre site is located on Dell Avenue about 700 feet north of Division Street.

The area is now zoned C-M (controlled manufacturing, a highly restrictive zone). To allow a theater to be built on the property, the zone must be either P-D (planned development); C-H (highway commercial); or C-2-3 (medium commercial).

The hearing will be on the question of whether the present zone should be changed to those that will allow the theater.

Even if the Planning Commission allows the zone change, the theater owners must come before that body again to obtain a use permit to operate on the new site, according to the zoning ordinance of the city.

The drive-in theater opened in November, 1960, after a variance was granted by the City Council on the official plan-line that had been adopted for the San Tomas Expressway.

The granting of the variance followed a long, drawn out hassle over the legal complications that had developed over the establishment of plan line. Owners of the property then maintained that the city or the county could not control the plan line without acquiring the property or without putting a deadline on the issue. The variance was granted with the condition that it existed only until the expressway was built.

The Planning Commission is also scheduled to hold four other public hearings. Two have to do with the issuance of a use permit for Shell Oil at Sunnyoaks and Winchester where a gas station is planned. Another hearing is on the text amendment for an amendment to the C-H zone and the other hearing is on the request of Campbell Water Co. to expand its facilities on W. Campbell Avenue.

City ok's aid for 'Ponies'

Campbell's City Council dug into the city's pocket book on Monday night and agreed to spend approximately $473 to make the city-owned Rincon Park more usable for the Campbell-Moreland Pony League.

The Campbell-Moreland Pony League all-stars won the world championship last season.

The city allocation will go toward the installation of a water line in the park which will allow the ball diamond to be maintained properly. The water line will also serve any other future development of the park.

The council also agreed to let the league have use of the shack now at the corporation yard and used for storage of small tools. The shack will be transported to the park. The city is planning to build a permanent storage shed at the corporation yard.

The council also granted the league exclusive concession rights at the ball park and agreed to clear off the weeds and grade the diamond.

Roger J. Gaetjen, Pony League president, in a letter to the City Council had made the requests of the city. The council had deferred action at a pre-

Council approves Hamilton project

Campbell's second largest street project in the city's history, the widening and cutting through of Hamilton Avenue, got off the ground Monday night at the City Council meeting. The largest job, the improvement of Campbell Avenue, costing $300,000, has been under way for a month.

The Council approved the plans and specifications for the Hamilton job, which is estimated to cost more than $200,000 on Monday. It is expected that the project will be ready to go to bid at the March 8 council meeting.

The overall plans for the street improvement job call for the improvement of Hamilton Avenue from Winchester Blvd. to the western city limits. According to the assistant city engineers, Bill Helms and Frank Lewis, the street when completed will have six moving lanes of traffic to the Rosemary School, five lanes from the school to the intersection of the San Tomas Expressway and four moving lanes past Phoenix.

The improvement program will be developed under a local improvement district plan. The rights-of-way needed for the widening have been acquired through dedication of the necessary parcels by property owners concerned.

The cost of the improvement project is less than what was first contemplated because Briggs and Bell, developers interested in the area, have agreed to pay for the construction of part of the project at the San Tomas Expressway and creek in order to keep the street open when the expressway is constructed sometime next year.

Through arrangements with the county, the developers will later be reimbursed for their outlay. Originally the city had planned to make this improvement from funds advanced from expressway reserves.

West Valley Junior College calls for $17.8 million bond issue April 20

A district-wide bond election, to provide $17.8 million for Construction of the first permanent campus for West Valley College has been called for April 20. The date was approved unanimously by the Board of Trustees.

The Board acted on a recommendation by the college's 15-member Advisory Committee, according to Bruce F. Allen, board chairman. William J. Nicholson, chairman of the advisory group, urged the April 20 date.

Allen said both the trustees and advisory committee members favored the April 20 date for two other reasons:

1. A number of unification elections are scheduled for that date, thus assuring a large voter turnout.

2. The bond election, consolidated with the unification vote, will allow a sharing of election expense and a consequent saving of $15,000 to taxpayers of the West Valley District.

The projected costs, Tarices said, compare favorably with plant replacement costs at both Foothill College and College of San Mateo. The projected West Valley College plant, he said will have facilities equal to either of the two colleges.

The new call for a bond election comes about 11 months after an unsuccessful election last March 10 when 58 percent of the voters approved a bond election for the first plant.

A majority of 66 2/3 percent is required by law.

The advisory committee recommended outright purchase of a previously-selected site at Fruitvale and Allendale Avenues in Saratoga and commencement of acquisition of sites in the Campbell and Santa Clara High School districts.

On unification

On April 20, voters in the five elementary school districts that comprise the Campbell Union High School District will cast ballots on the question of unification of the districts.

Campbell, Cambrian, Burbank, Moreland and Union elementary districts make up the Campbell Union High School District.

If the unification vote is successful, it will mean that the five districts then, in a sense, will become one for the purpose of administration, educational program, etc.

Proponents of unification maintain that the primary purpose of unifying school districts is not to save money. It is to improve the quality of education and to insure, from an educational standpoint, the best possible use is made of the money that is being spent and will be spent on the schools.

Opponents of unification raise objections concerning finances, standardization and autonomy.

The issue is a complicated one and it affects every one in the district—parents, school children and just plain John Doe Taxpayer.

The school program has become immense. And it will get even bigger.

It seems obvious that the organizational structure of the schools must be modified in many sections of the country to keep pace with the growth. This has to be done, if these areas are to have the sort of schools that the youngsters deserve and need and that the taxpayer can support.

We are in no position to judge whether unification will accomplish every objective or whether unification will mean better or more economical schools.

But we do know that the trend in the state has been toward unification and, on the surface, at least, it makes sense.

The trend toward unification has been given an impetus by the passage of the Unruh Bill, AB 145. Since its passage, 28 out of 33 unification elections have been successful.

But actually the trend toward unification started long before that. In 1935 there were 3,047 school districts in the state. Today there are 1,559.

While we concede that the basis for unification is sound, we recognize that there may be a danger in unifying large districts, such as the five that make up the Campbell Union High School District.

Almost all will agree that there are many small districts in the state that are in need of unification.

Most will also agree that the arbitrary division between high school and elementary schools has become antiquated.

We firmly believe, also, that the educational program from the elementary grades through high school can be better coordinated and integrated through the unified district.

We are not so naive to believe, however, that unification will save money. But we think, in most cases, that unification will give a better return for the tax dollar.

The sad part is, we believe, that all of us must decide the question on April 20 and there are so many ramifications to it that none of us seem to be in a position to weigh the matter intelligently and without prejudice.

We all can find fault with the idea in general, especially as it affects our own immediate area.

We have no idea "how big" is "too big".

The high school district that will be unified, if the voters approve on April 20, will truly be big. There is no question about that.

Campbell and Moreland, alone, have had an explosive growth pattern over the years. When Union, Burbank and Cambrian are combined with them, it makes a district as big as many counties in the state.

But we know the trend has been toward unification in the state, regardless of size.

We feel that apparently unification offers tremendous advantages for the educational program and for administration, as a general rule. And we have maintained that the division between elementary and high school has become less and less obvious in the past years.

We wish we could recommend the unification of the local district with more enthusiasm. We do feel that, as a whole, unification is the right answer.

Whether it will be better for the Campbell Union High School District is another question. But how are we ever going to know without trying it?

We wish we could answer that.

SOME OF YOU are probably getting tired and somewhat bored by the constant reference in this column to the important part automobile agencies play in the fiscal picture of cities.

We refer, of course, to the income cities derive on the sales tax that is paid by automobile customers. Los Gatos, for example, collected $63,000 in the third quarter last year from sales tax in this field. Campbell took in $570.

But we think the point was brought home even more emphatically at a recent Campbell city council meeting when the city purchased four police cars.

It took about five minutes for the council to approve the low bid for the cars. Low bidder was Courtesy Chevrolet of San Jose.

The City of San Jose was thus enriched by $93 (total sales tax was $378) by the City of Campbell in that one transaction. Not bad for five minutes.

ONE OF THE SAD aspects of the recent demolition of the 60-year-old Odd Fellows hall at Campbell and First St. was watching the line-up of oldtimers who acted as unobtrusive side-walk superintendents during the tearing-down activities.

It is always disquieting to a degree to see old buildings removed.

Something always goes with them, especially memories.

True, the removal of old buildings is generally a must in this day of progress and most of these ancient structures have served their time. The Odd Fellows hall, for example, had become unsafe, from a structural standpoint.

So, it had to go.

But still as those oldtimers watched it go down ignominiously as the bulldozers clawed away at it, one could almost see the nostalgic memories sweep over the faces of the onlookers.

CAMPBELL AVENUE for years has been the center of attention, in a sort of negative way, as civic leaders have attempted to work out its destiny.

Today it is still providing headaches for city planners and civic leaders in general.

But the fall of the IOOF hall emphasized to us the number of changes that have been made to Campbell Avenue since we have been in this city, which is going on 10 years now.

A number of large modern new buildings have been constructed in that time. (Two banks and Blendwell Interiors, to name several).

Many stores have undergone complete remodeling from top to bottom.

Parking areas have been provided in many sections.

Yet the question of what to do about Campbell Avenue still persists.

vious meeting to learn the cost of the water line. The league will have use of the ball diamond from April through July 30, 1965 from 6 p. m. until dark each week day and all day on Saturday and Sunday.

Gaetjen told the council that more than 300 boys participate in the league's minor and major league program.

In other actions, the City Council approved the employment of an office clerk on a temporary basis in the Planning Department for the remainder of the fiscal year. Richard Hogan, planning director, explained that the present workload in the department did not allow time to develop future plans and studies.

The City Council on City Manager Bob Stephens recommendation upgraded Wallace H. Byron, in the building department to senior building inspector. The council also approved the employment of Mrs. Lillian Rae Mincer in the city clerk's office to replace Mrs. Alice Miller who had resigned.

In another personnel matter, the council directed City Manager Stephens to proceed with the recruitment of a full-time account clerk in the controller's office. Temporary help has been used previously in this department.

The council directed City Manager Stephens by a 4-1 vote (Mayor Charles Rose dissenting) to apply for federal funds in the open space program. If the city's request is approved, approximately $3600 (about 30%) may be obtained to assist in the purchase of the seven-acre Los Gatos Creek park site.

Mayor Rose felt that the city should "go it alone" in this acquisition and perhaps apply later for help in financing larger parcels.

The councilmen at the same meeting approved the recommendation of Stephens which modifies the processing of claims.

Under the plan, the present council audit committee will become the finance committee whose main function

El Paradiso Council "Project Alert" is gaining momentum here, after being devised by a small group of parents on San Jose's West Side.

Its goal is to educate parents on the causes, early signs and remedial programs available to "prevent juvenile delinquency before it happens," according to Vern Rutlen, leader of Project Alert, and a member of the board of trustees of Campbell Union High School District.

"The tendency is to consider juvenile delinquency as a teen-age problem," he explained, "when actually it is something that begins very early in a child's life."

"More and more we find that proper training of children, and recognition of emotional problems, are items that are being sloughed off by parents to the schools," he said.

Present plans call for a motorcade, or "buscade" from each of the six high schools in the district to descend upon Juvenile Hall for an evening meeting on March 8, when some of the causes and possible cures for juvenile delinquency will be explored by experts.

A planning session for the March 8 meeting, which Rutlen expects to become a community-wide affair, is set with officials of all of the various PTA and Home and School clubs in the area, for Thursday, February 18 at 8 P.M. at Salinas Valley Savings community room, Saratoga Avenue and Campbell Avenue.

Fluoridation question goes to users of San Jose water

Campbell customers of the San Jose Water Works are being canvassed as to their feelings about fluoridation of water. The canvass is a direct result of the favorable vote by the people of San Jose for fluoridation.

The company, in addition to San Jose, supplies Los Gatos, Monte Sereno, Saratoga and portions of Campbell and Cupertino, as well as some unincorporated areas. Residents of these areas did not have an opportunity to vote on the question.

San Jose Water Works notified Francis Greiner, San Jose City Clerk, that the Company is canvassing all of its customers to obtain a system-wide advisory opinion on fluoridation of the water supply.

This communication went out with the mailing of all water bills commencing Wednesday, February 3. It was sent as a result of a resolution by the San Jose City Council, forwarded to San Jose Water Works by the City Clerk, which requested the Company to fluoridate the water supply to customers within the City Limits.

The City Council's resolution was passed following the advisory vote at the General Election in November, 1964, in which city voters cast a majority of votes in favor of fluoridation.

"Water service in Central Santa Clara County does not and cannot recognize political boundaries", Ralph Elsmann, San Jose Water Works President stated.

"The Company also supplies Los Gatos, Monte Sereno, Saratoga, portions of Campbell and Cupertino and some unincorporated areas. Our customers in these areas did not have an opportunity to express an opinion on fluoridation. And it is the purpose of our current mailing to provide this opportunity. To do this effectively and most economically, it has been necessary to send this mailing to customers throughout the system."

The notice which contains a space for the customer to express approval or disapproval of fluoridation, estimates that the cost per customer for fluoridation would be approximately $3.85 per year. Estimated capital investment for facilities would be approximately $750,000 with an estimated additional $450,000 required for increased expenses.

Elsmann pointed out that these estimates were general and would have to be confirmed by detailed engineering studies which are now in progress and which were specified in his letter to the City dated December 8, 1964.

Science fair to take place at fairgrounds

A new opportunity for student scientists will be featured this year at the fifth annual Santa Clara Valley Science Fair March 19-21, to be held in the pavilion at the County Fairgrounds.

The special competition in the presentation of scientific-technical papers if designed to encourage boys and girls in grades 7 through 12 to break into a new dimension of solid scientific achievement.

After considerable screening of papers submitted, those chosen as finalists in the competition will be presented by the students who prepared them, at a "Family Scientists' Night" on Friday, March 19 at 7:30 p.m. Awards to the winning exhibitors in the Santa Clara Valley Science Fair also will be presented at that time.

Dr. John M. Harri-man, manager of computation and data processing for General Electric at 175 Curtner Ave., San Jose, is receiving students technical papers entered for this competition. Deadline for submitting papers is March 1.

Dr. Orson Keeslar, coordinator of secondary curriculum for Santa Clara County Schools at 70 W. Hedding St., San Jose, will receive entry forms from students whose science projects are selected by their school districts for exhibit in the Santa Clara Valley Science Fair. Projects accepted are chosen at science fairs conducted by participating school districts, or may be submitted directly by students from other districts.

Del Mar Dateline

BY
Rosalie Ann Castello

Del Mar's Future Business Leaders of America went to Sacramento to attend the Northern Regional Conference. The purpose of this meeting was to hold contests to decide who would represent the Northern Section at the state convention in Disneyland this April. Del Mar's club sent eleven members to the conference. Those attending were: Ed Crouch, Sheila Taylor, Marleene Gurrola, Karen Meyling, Cyl Rodriguez, Donna Urata, Jan Purwin, Roberta Meyling, Candy Schleeter, Veronica Butler, Jeff Chase and the advisor, Dean Rvstad. Contests include: spelling, parliamentary procedure, vocabulary, typing, shorthand, and public speaking. Del Mar's club took many honors, including first place in vocabulary, won by President Jeff Chase. Del Mar also received the highest honor that a club can get at a conference of this type: Veronica Butler was elected Section Vice-President (there are no section presidents elected) and Sheila Taylor was elected corresponding secretary.

The Senior class is making plans for the all-night graduation party to be held on the evening of June 10th. The Horizon Room of the Clairmont Hotel in Oakland has been tentatively chosen for the gala party.

Del Mar's wrestling team virtually assured themselves of the WVAL varsity championship by defeating the second place Westmont team 31-18 on January 29. The match, held at the Del Mar gym, found the Dons gaining the margin of victory on the strength of seven victories and two draws in the 13 weight divisions. Pins were recorded for the Dons by Dave Hall (135 lb), Tom Cain (140 lb), and Jim Vasquez (156 lb).

The individual point-totals for the wrestlers (5 points for a pin, 3 points for a decision, and 2 points for a draw) through February 4, find Steve Selletti leading the Del Mar team, Selletti (122 lb), with 61 points, is followed by Joe Aiello (129 lb) with 44 points, and Don Davison (177 lb) with 35 points.

Del Mar's varsity basketball team romped over Westmont and Campbell on January 29, and February 2, respectively, by scores of 62-43, and 71-45. Through the two contests, the Dons' Kirk Ladine continued his league leading scoring pace with 17 and 28 point performances, while two other Dons, John Puglesi and Bill Brozdiak, moved into 6th and 12th place in the league scoring figures.

SWING INTO SPRING WITH THE NEW HAIR STYLES

Short cuts to better grooming

If you have a home and family, a lot is expected of you. How do you find time for your personal upkeep? A mother of small children is lucky if she can keep her hair combed and a fresh blouse for herself on the hanger. If you are holding a job also you are expected even more of yourself. Here are a few pointers for short cuts to better grooming.

1. Simplify your wardrobe. Keep clothes in good repair. A few outfits, each in working order, keep you better dressed than a closetful of odds and ends.

2. Take care of your skin. Your skin-care needs are few: cleanser, toner and lubricating cream, and of course your make-up. Start the day with a complete make-up. You need not worry then, the rest of the day, except for an occasional touch-up of lip stick.

3. A good hair style is important. Get a good basic haircut and a simple hair styling that requires only a few curlers or a spraying between sets. You can get along with one shampoo and set a week.

4. Keep your hands well-groomed. Gloves are a must for house work and dishwashing. Rub hands lavishly with lotion. A once-a-week manicure will keep your hands pretty. If polish won't stay chip free for a full week, then you must plan for a mid-week polish change or use clear liquid polish.

5. Take care of your feet too. Comfortable shoes can make all the difference in the world. If you have a stand-up job, give feet and legs regular rest, sitting down or lying down from time to time with feet higher than the hips is great. And treat yourself to a pedicure after your bath.

6. Learn to relax. Relaxation is a time saver because it renews your energy. Any change of pace is relaxation.

1965 HAIRSTYLES-- New hair styles are shorter, curlier, and bouncier. The straight, smooth Dutch Boy haircut is out. Instead hair is being styled in curls and petals with a tapered neckline. Visit your favorite hair dresser and discover what a new hair style can do for you. Spring is only a short time away.

Tips on wise buying of upholstered furniture

By Shirley Hess

Today zippers are found on many chair and sofa cushions and the customer is usually led to believe that they are installed just for cleaning purposes. Mr. James Leaper, manager of Lions Furniture Store in Town and Country Village, explained to the Campbell Adult Interior Decorating classes, the reason we find so many zippers today. It is cheaper for the manufacturer to install a zipper than to have a seamstress finish the last seam in a cushion. It is true that the cushion may be removed to clean the cover but it is very difficult to put the cushion back in as the cover is usually made smaller than the cushion, Leaper said.

The zipper does enable the customer to look inside the cover to see which kind of cushion has been used. There are many types of cushions used today. Polyfoam is a lightweight plastic foam. It will not retain its shape as long as foam rubber and it will revolve causing the cover to look as though it has shifted.

Foam rubber cushions are more expensive than poly-foam, but they will retain their shape for many years. There are two types of foam rubber cushions. A pin core cushion is a solid piece of foam rubber with tiny holes all over which prevents the rubber from powdering. A solid core cushion appears to be a solid piece of foam rubber but it may have shredded rubber inside.

In the last two years a new type of cushion came on the market. It is called a Super-soft cushion. It has a core of foam rubber with dacron or kodel wrapped around to give a crowned look. It is a modification of the down or spring type cushion. A polycore cushion is just like the Super-soft except polyfoam is used for the inner core.

Full coil springs and no-sag springs are the two types used in construction of furniture. A no-sag spring is a flat

Women Voters meet Thursday

Campbell women are invited to attend the next meeting of the West Valley Unit, League of Women Voters, which meets on Thursday, February 18, in the home of Mrs. James Jackson, 10401 Somerset Court, Cupertino.

For further information interested women may call Mrs. David Messenger, unit chairman, at 378-0426. Study items on the local level of government are to be considered at February meetings. The LWV is a non-partisan organization which encourages citizens to take an active part in government.

zig-zag shaped spring which comes in large rolls. It is easier to repair a no-sag spring and they are less expensive for the manufacturer. Leaper feels one will get more wear from a full coil spring but the manufacturers feel the no sag is just as good.

Full coil springs are individual coils installed during construction. A Marshall unit is a coil spring unit built separately and installed after construction with small helicoe springs. To tell which type of spring has been used, reach under the sofa and if your hand is stopped you know it is a full coil spring. If your hand can reach up quite far then it has a no-sag spring, Leaper said.

There is still time to register in one of the Campbell Adult Education Classes in interior decoration. Call 379-4710 for further information.

THAT FEMININE TOUCH

By Dolores Keywood

By special request, this week's column will be devoted to answering questions about hair. I've been asked to do so, because this is "NATIONAL BEAUTY WEEK". However, before I answer any of your questions, I feel impelled to say, one week devoted to beauty is not nearly enough. Needless to say, I believe every day in the week should be "NATIONAL BEAUTY DAY".

Q. "Is it true that darker shades of hair tend to emphasize age lines?"

A. Yes! We all know that age lines are unavoidable and once they have arrived, they are there to stay. Lines may appear softer and less obvious on the fair haired woman. For brunettes, it's a very simple thing to have the hair lightened a shade or two. You'd be surprised at the effect this has on the skin tone and those unwanted lines.

Q. "I have heard that there is no such thing as grey hair. Is that true?"

A. Since this was the first time I'd ever heard anything like this, I thought I had better consult authorities on this subject and they agree that this is news to them. Yes, there is such a thing as grey hair and if you don't believe it, look around! Q. "My hair is a dish-water brown, very thin and fine. I heard that if I have it bleached, it would have more body and hold curl longer. Is that right?"

A. Absolutely. But this doesn't necessarily mean that once the hair is bleached, it must remain blonde. Many women want to add body to the hair, yet don't want to change the color. In a case like this, I recommend having the hair stripped (bleached) and tinting it back to its original color.

If your hair is dish-water brown, it sounds ideal for frosting, which also adds body.

Hair that has been bleached or tinted is far more pliable than virgin hair and consequently holds a set longer.

Q. "I would like to buy a wig and I wonder which I'd be more pleased with: my natural color of light brown or one of the blonde shades, which I also like."

A. To answer this question intelligently, I must see you and know more about you. Your social life would have a great bearing on your choice as well as your skin tones. Just "liking the blonde shades" is not reason enough to

Cosmetologists give services to hospitals

Members of the local chapter of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association are assembling combs, brushes, curlers, etc., in preparation for their annual visit this week to area hospitals and institutions, where they will put their talents to work for our community.

The public service project is part of the activities saluting the fifteenth annual National Beauty Salon Week, sponsored by the National Association, of which the San Jose-Campbell chapter is the local affiliate.

According to Charlene Ferreira of the Towne Square Beauty Salon in Campbell, more than 500,000 free beauty services, including haircuts, permanent waves, shampoos and stylings will be given to persons in institutions throughout the country during National Beauty Salon Week.

The public is invited to join in the special festivities celebrating the National Beauty Salon Week at Breakfast at Los Gatos Lodge, February 14, at 10:30 A. M.

invest in a blonde wig. An added tip to those interested in purchasing a wig in a color other than their own; be sure to change the color of your make-up, from eye brows to foundation.

Favorite recipes from our Campbell readers:

LAZZY DAISY MEAT BALLS
1 lb. Ground Beef
1 tsp. Salt
1/8 tsp. each of pepper, celery salt, garlic salt, or nutmeg, if desired
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs or cracker crumbs
1/2 cup water
2 tbsp. grated onion
10 1/2 oz. can mushroom soup
1/4 soup can of water

Mix meat, seasonings, bread crumbs, water and onion. Form in small ball, roll in flour, brown in hot fat. Mix soup, water, pour over meat balls, cover and simmer about 30 min. 6 servings.

Mrs. Louise Connelly

GROUND BEEF DINNER
1 lb. Ground Beef
1 med. onion, sliced or chopped
1 med. can green beans
2 Tbsp. flour
Salt, pepper
Mashed Potatoes

Prepare potatoes and put them on to boil. Open can of green beans and bring to a boil. In meantime, fry the beef and onion only until the meat has turned color. Do not overfry. Sprinkle flour over meat and stir thoroughly. Add the hot juice drained from the green beans and add enough water from the boiled potatoes to make sufficient gravy over the meat and allow to simmer about 5 minutes more.

Serve the beef mixture nestled in the mashed potatoes with green beans on the side. This makes a nutritious dinner because vitamins were not lost from the green beans or the potatoes, as well as making the gravy tasty.

Mrs. Olin Shrock

More teachers seek jobs in Campbell District

Neal Royer, Assistant Superintendent of the Campbell Union School District, has just concluded a successful period of recruitment of staff members to fill in mid-year vacancies in the Campbell Elementary Schools.

Ten new teachers have been assigned to the following schools: Mrs. Rockesanda Peeks, Rosemary School, grade 3; Mrs. Mary Bailey, Cypress School, grade 3; Miss Jane Weller, Campbell School, grade 1; Mrs.

Janet Williams, Dover School, grade 1; Mrs. Helen Stewart, Dover School, grade 5; Miss Joanne Castagnola, Blackford, grade 1; Mrs. Mildred Paulson, Blackford, grade 8; Mrs. Geraldine Chartrand, Forest Hill, grade 2; Mrs. Susan Bruntz, Rolling Hills, Physical Education; and Miss Carolyn Elliott, Castlemont, grade 1. Royer pointed out that the number of applicants for every position in the Campbell Union School District has increased 50 percent in recent years.

INTERVIEW--A teacher candidate for the Campbell Elementary School District is interviewed by Assistant Superintendent Neal Royer, assisted by Fred Peterson, left, principal of Forest Hills School and Miss Kathryn Merry, principal of Lynhaven School.

Asked how the district achieved this enviable state, Royer credited the principals with creating good conditions for both the professionals and the student teachers.

"The word gets around," he said cheerfully. The student teachers talk about their experiences in the Campbell District back on the campuses and arouse the interest of their fellow-students, who think they would like to work in Campbell someday.

Resident teachers who supervise student teachers carry a large share of responsibility for helping them have a successful experience also, he said. A starting point for recruiting successfully is the acceptance of student teachers as fellow teachers by the permanent staff.

Another incentive for recruiting to the Campbell District is that each teacher is hired for a specific job, in a particular grade and school. He is hired as an individual by the principal who has talked with him—not as one of a pool of teachers who will be placed later. All of these factors have led up to the noticeable increase in applications for employment in the Campbell Union School District.

Delivery was completed last week.

W. E. Simmons, Pacific Telephone district manager, said 40,700 directories were delivered this year. That's 3,700 more than were needed in 1964.

Delivery men struggled with 56 tons of paper to complete the job. Last year the smaller directories weighed nine tons less than this year.

Area growth and expansion explains why there are 16 more pages of alphabetical listings and 24 more pages of yellow page listings than in 1964.

Emergency numbers, calling instructions and special services such as time and weather are prominently displayed.

Federal law prohibits a corporation from misrepresenting its financial picture to its stockholders and the public. But no such law applies to the world's largest corporation, the U.S. Government, which is by no means scrupulous in reporting its financial picture to its own citizens. In fact, the manner of presenting the President's budget has been downright deceptive for some time and should be changed.

President Johnson, with his acknowledged flair for public relations, has convinced the great mass of the people that he has achieved a near-miracle in keeping the budget which he presented last week below $100 billion. Actually the $99.7 billion figure he presented is nothing more than "bookkeeping sleight of hand" and is not at all representative of our true financial position. It is referred to as the "administrative budget" and is rarely used except for public display. It can be manipulated up or down as a "guesstimate" that will bear little or no relation to the actual cash transactions which will take place.

President Johnson's cash budget for the period covered by his budget message will involve disbursement of more than $127 billion instead of $99.7 billion. And the "New Obligational Authority budget" is $106.4 billion with $6 billion in supplemental requests to follow.

A careful study of the 512 page budget shows far more emphasis on increases than cutting back. More than 300 expenditure increases can be pinpointed and federal employment in civilian agencies will be increased by 45,000.

Some defense agency jobs will be eliminated, but the net increase will be 26,680. The new employment level will represent an increase of 154,000 federal employees since President Eisenhower left the White House.

Another financial gimmick that has been used for a long time to confuse the public is the supplemental and deficiency appropriation. Currently we are operating in Fiscal Year 1965 under a budget (administrative) which President Johnson announced a year ago as $97.9 billion. Even before the new budget message for this year, Congress had already approved Presidential requests to raise this more than $1 billion, and the President has announced that he will request further "supplementals" for the current budget in an amount of $6 billion. Thus, it can be seen that the $97.9 billion figure of a year ago was utterly meaningless. There is no reason to believe that the $99.7 billion figure so dramatically presented to the nation for Fiscal Year 1966 is any more reliable and meaningful.

The fifth straight deficit projected in the President's new budget will be $5.3 billion and bring the total of "red ink" to $32.4 billion for five consecutive fiscal years.

If deficit financing and continued increases in the public debt are what the people really want--so be it. But budgets, conceived solely for display purposes and which are so misrepresentative as to blur the true picture, should not be used to lull the public into believing that its government really is economizing!

should not, therefore, be forced to pay a special assessment.

If votes had been taken in the General Assembly, the United States would have been forced to challenge those nations in arrears, or concede on the principle it holds so strongly. So votes have been avoided and impasse is the result. In the meantime, behind the scenes negotiations continue with both sides looking for areas of compromise which will allow them to save face and still preserve the United Nations.

This is exactly the same issue which was involved in the Congressional battle of 1962 as to whether the United States should purchase $100 million in UN bonds. Many of us argued then that the United States should loan no money to the UN until the International Court of Justice had ruled upon the subject and the UN had conformed with the ruling. We were defeated by a vote of 219-171 and a watered-down resolution urging implementation of the decision, but not requiring it, was passed instead. We felt that the bond purchase plan was a mere postponement of reality and the UN would be stronger for meeting its problems

Questions and Answers

By Gladstone A. Boquist

Q. My father, who was receiving social security checks, died on the 28th of the month. May I keep the next social security check which will come on the third of the month?

A. No. Since your father died before the end of the month, he as they arose.

Time has proven the validity of our position. The postponed crisis is with us today at a time which is hardly opportune. France is no longer our close and dependable ally, Sukarno talks of starting a rival UN, and US policy in Vietnam is not appreciated by many UN members. Our prestige and position in the UN was stronger in 1962 than it is at this moment.

Clearly the American people will not allow another bond purchase. And just as clearly Russia and France have no intention of backing down. The outlook is not good for the UN's future--because we ducked a problem in 1962 instead of facing it.

would not be eligible for the check and it must be returned to the Treasury Department or your Social Security Office.

Q. I am a farm operator and had a poor year last year, netting only $750. Because my wife and I both get a $600 deduction, no income tax is due. What about social security tax, do I owe any?

A. A self-employed farm operator who has net earnings from farming of $400 or more is required to pay a self-employed tax. The social security tax is due (when the net is at least $400) whether or not income tax is due. You should file a tax return and pay the self-employment tax.

Q. I operate a small business as a self-employed person. A few months ago I turned 65. Should I be in any particular hurry to complete my income tax report for 1964?

A. We would suggest that you do this as soon as possible and bring a copy to the social security office when you inquire about filing an application for benefits.

Q. I am 74 years old and after having received social security benefits for five years I will return to work. Do I have to report

Symphonic band plays at Rogers

The San Francisco State College Symphonic Band included Samuel Curtis Rogers Junior High School on its annual tour Monday morning, February 1. The concert, held at 8:30 a.m. in the Rogers Cafetorium, was the only performance in the Moreland School District.

Dr. Edwin C. Kruth, is conductor of the band which is touring California schools.

this to the Social Security Administration?

A. No, beginning with the month of your 72nd birthday, you can be paid all your benefits regardless of how much you earn. And if your earnings are large enough, they may even make it possible for your benefit amount to be raised. If you think this might be the case, take a statement of your wages (Form W-2) to the social security office at the end of the year, and the people there will see if you are eligible for a recomputation of benefits.

the night nobody showed up

Nobody missed you at the City Council Meeting that night--because there was no one there to miss you. It just happened you weren't the only one who found it inconvenient to come. Everybody, that night, had the same thought: "Let George do it!" And none of the Georges showed up! □ This imaginary situation is not at all far fetched. It happens, in part, at every town meeting--someone with a valuable opinion doesn't come. The missing opinion may be the one that would have started action on needed civic improvements, or killed a proposal you would like to see dropped. This important missing opinion might be yours.

□ Your active interest in local government gives you the story behind the need for improved fire-fighting equipment, schools, water and sewage facilities, parks, streets, and other community facilities. □ Almost every important community asset is financed with money provided by municipal bonds. Bonds spread the cost over a long period to keep taxes at a reasonable level. And interest rates are decided by competitive bidding to get the lowest rate under prevailing bond market conditions. □ The Bank of America with associated dealers bids on virtually all state and municipal bonds offered for sale in the State. We have a very real interest--and confidence--in California communities like yours. Do you?
